Shopping Days Left

One of the young men then suddenly drew what appeared to be a double-barreled revolver and said "This is a stickup," Mrs. Zegel said. She observed that the young men were seemingly quite nervous. They had considerable difficulty in scooping the cash from the register and, as a couple of grace that tipped off their amateur status, they grabbed a Salvation Army collection tin box before bolting out of the door.

Stolen Car May Be Part Of Activity

Quartet Entered Elms, Ordered Beer, Then Announced Holdup in Progress

Says Men Young

Three Were About 25 Years, Leader About 27

Four young men who held up The Elms in Rosendale at gunpoint last night and escaped with $25 from the cash register were the objects of a statewide police search today.

The quartet, apparently amateurs, walked into the restaurant and tavern of the Elms bus depot which is operated by Peter Zegel, Jr., about 11:35 last night, asked for a beer, and then pulled the stickup.

Poughkeepsie police disclosed a possible lead in the case with the report of a stolen automobile about 11:30 last night in Poughkeepsie.

The car, a 1941 Chevrolet coupe with canvas top, owned by Dr. Harold Rosenthal, of Poughkeepsie, was reported missing at 11:28 p. m. Dr. Rosenthal said he had parked the car on a street and had been away from it for several hours.

Mrs. Zegel told investigators she thought the getaway car used by the thugs was a coupe with canvas top.

After staging the holdup, the robbers are believed to have headed in the direction of New Paltz. Valuable time was lost in contacting all police agencies, since Mrs. Zegel ran upstairs to awaken her husband who was sleeping while the holdup was taking place. The couple then notified the sheriff's office but the state police were not aware of the stickup until the alarm was flashed over the teletype a few hours later.

The sheriff's office and state police from Lake Katrine, Highland and Wurtsboro moved in swiftly to throw road blocks at various points in the area but no clues had been uncovered at noon today.

Deputy sheriffs Leonard Belmore and Leonard Ellsworth conducted the preliminary investigation for the sheriff's office.

Sgt. Art Reilly and Trooper Rock of the B.C.I. division of the state troopers, Troopers Austin and Dunford of Highland, and Troopers Maliga and Johnston of the Wurtsboro sub station joined the manhunt shortly after the teletype flash.

Mrs. Zegel Alone

Mrs. Peter Zegel, wife of the proprietor of the tavern, was alone at the time and was about to check out the register for the night. One of the young men said he wished to see Mr. Zegel, an old friend of his, but on second thought indicated that perhaps Mr. Zegel might not recognize him after such a long absence.

Mrs. Zegel told investigators after the robbery that she recalled that the young men acted rather nervously while they were going through the motions of drinking their beer.

Tells of Gun Drawing

One of the young men then suddenly drew what appeared to be a double-barreled revolver and said "This is a stickup," Mrs. Zegel said. She observed that the young men were seemingly quite nervous. They had considerable difficulty in scooping the cash from the register and, as a couple of grace that tipped off their amateur status, they grabbed a Salvation Army collection tin box before bolting out of the door.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 13 (AP)—Street car and bus service was tied up early today in this city of 250,000 after operators failed to report for work.

The service ended shortly after the Amalgamated Union of Street Car Operators (A.F.L.) met to hear a report by a three-man arbitration board which had been considering demands for a wage increase. The board awarded a five cents an hour increase. The union had asked for 20 cents an hour hike.

U.N. Committee Will Recommend Offer Acceptance

Trygve Lie Will Receive Power to Accept
Property; Friction
Is Recorded

Lake Success, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—The United Nations headquarters committee, having decided to accept John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s proffered gift of an $8,500,000 piece of Manhattan real estate, will meet this afternoon to empower Secretary-General Trygve Lie to accept the property.

Both steps were contained in a United States resolution presented to the committee last night by Warren R. Austin, chief U. S. delegate, which, when adopted by the committee, will be submitted for approval of the entire U.N. Assembly.

The vote in the 54-nation committee endorsing the first clause of Austin's resolution, that accepting the Rockefeller gift, was 53 to 7, with six delegates abstaining. Eight committee members were absent or did not participate in the vote.

The action may end more than a year of indecision and wrangling over the location of the world peace capital, a debate which appeared settled by a decision to settle in Westchester county, voted by the General Assembly in London early this year.

The decision is repeated under provisions of Austin's resolution.

Bitter Fight Staged
Advocates of San Francisco and the Presidio in that city in particular, staged a bitter last ditch fight against New York as the U.N. home, under Australia's leadership.

Australian Delegate Norman W. O. Makin declared the committee was being imposed upon in being asked to accept an offer which had been before it less than 40 hours. He was vehement in his denunciation of a hasty decision and was joined by representatives of India, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Egypt, Lebanon and Syria. France, which also objected to the speedy acceptance of the Manhattan site, abstained from voting.

China abandoned the ranks of those advocating San Francisco and voted for New York.

The Rockefeller offer includes approximately 18 acres of land between First Avenue and Franklin D. Roosevelt Drive and extending from Forty-Second to Forty-Eighth street on Manhattan's midtown East side.

Particularly jubilant over the speedy end of the committee's exhaustive discussions of the site issue was Georgi Saksn, Soviet delegate who last week had declared Russian delegates would not attend U.N. sessions if the permanent headquarters were not located on the east coast of the United States, preferably in or near New York city.

Will Require Two-Thirds
In the General Assembly, the decision to accept Rockefeller's offer and the corollary New York city offer to provide adjoining small tracts to round out the site, will require a two-thirds majority for ratification. But it was expected today that delegations absent from the committee last night and a possible change of attitude by New York's opponents would provide the necessary 36 votes.

The committee's vote eliminated for the present two other strong contenders for the headquarters site in addition to San Francisco—the cities of Philadelphia and Boston.

A sub-committee, which inspected the site offered by Rockefeller, and the area now occupied by garages, bars, slaughter houses and tenements in a neighborhood noted for "dead end kids," reported it would be "excellent for construction of a verticle type headquarters."

The U. N. secretariat already was planning an international competition to select the architect for what was generally assumed would be a skyscraper development resembling Rockefeller Center.

The first step in selecting a U.N. home was the Assembly's decision in London that it should be in the United States. Approving a preparatory commission's report, it voted to settle in Westchester county, or Fairfield county, Conn., and established a commission to select the best site in that area.

The commission's explorations of the two counties just north of

Three Escape Police
Trap at Oakland

Oakland, Calif., Dec. 13 (AP)—Aided by a pea-soup fog, three men sought in a $10,000 extortion attempt, escaped a carefully-laid police trap amid a flurry of gunfire here last night.

One of the three, who sped away after snatching a package supposed to contain the money from the car of their intended victim, was believed to have been hit by a policeman's fire.

But, though they avoided arrest, the trio failed to collect $10,000 demanded from Albert Ichelson, wealthy San Francisco real estate operator and race owner.

The package they grabbed from Ichelson's automobile, parked in front of a hotel according to written instructions, contained only four $1 bills and some notebooks, said Inspector Frank Lacey of the San Francisco police.

Oakland, Redwood City and San Francisco officers joined in the trap, set up after Ichelson informed Police Chief Clement Collins of Redwood City that he had received a penciled note at his Peninsula home ordered him to "pay $10,000 now and live to enjoy Christmas, or death."

The horns of the giraffe are covered with skin and hair.

New York city and its selection of five possible locations in Westchester county brought protests from residents who objected to being moved from their homes to make way for the U. N.

Last month, during the current Assembly session, the question was reopened at United States insistence and the committee was instructed to give consideration to San Francisco, Philadelphia, Boston and New York sites. A sub-committee traveled to inspect the offers in these cities at a cost of approximately $34,000, but its report that San Francisco and Philadelphia were of equal merit provoked Russia's adamant stand for the east coast and a subsequent U. S. move to postpone any decision until next year.

Then Rockefeller's offer was made and Austin rushed it to the committee. There it was received with obvious relief by all members except the San Francisco loyalists.

Soldier Who Wed Savage Is Given Threat Annulment

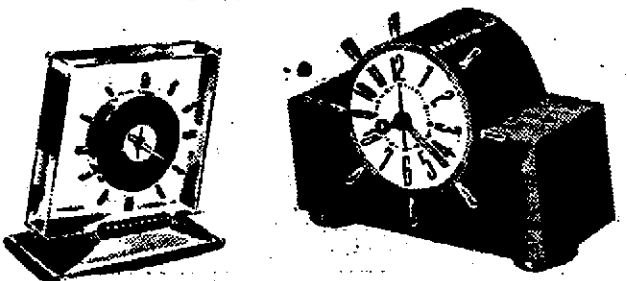

Bays, Kas., Dec. 13 (AP)—The strange marriage of an American soldier to a girl member of a savage Igorot tribe in the Philippine Islands was annulled yesterday after the veteran testified he was under threat of death.

He became ill and was nursed by an Igorot girl chosen by the tribe's chief. He said that after regaining his health he learned tribal law required that he and the girl be married. At first, he said, he refused but finally complied under threat of death. Lehnus escaped shortly after the wedding, but was recaptured by the Japanese and held prisoner until the war ended.

Olympus Biologist Has His Sights on Certain Objects, Including Antarctic Eyes

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Aboard U.S.S. Mt. Olympus en route to Little America, Dec. 13 (AP)—Jack Perkins wants to kill an albatross, bring back a live emperor penguin, and get a collection of Antarctic eyes.

Perkins is a biologist of the Fish and Wildlife Service, a black-haired, solidly-built young man with a multitude of jobs cut out for himself in the icy Antarctic. Perkins knows his way around in south polar climes. He was down there 18 months with the government's 1939-41 expedition.

He tried to shoot an albatross seven years ago, but so powerful is the superstition of bad luck a la ancient mariner from such an execution that the third mate aboard the North Star objected vehemently and the captain upheld him. No albatross. Perkins still is hoping to get one of the nine-foot wingspan birds "but I don't know what the modern navy thinks of it. I haven't asked yet."

The emperor penguin assignment is easier. He can corral some of them to fulfill an order from the Washington, D. C. zoo, but transporting them back through the tropics is something else. He hopes that perhaps he can use the refrigerator aboard the Olympus, but entertains some doubts.

Eyes Are Not Affected

The collection of eyes of animals living in Antarctic is a request from the optical instruments departments of the navy in Washington which wants them for study. He will get some real eyes, penguin eyes, and eyes of other birds there, but doesn't know exactly why they are wanted. Humans must wear sun goggles at all times to keep from becoming snow-blinded in Antarctic areas.

due to the extreme glare and light. Such blindness is painful, like the sensation of sand in the eyes, and can result in permanent injury. The native animals and birds are not affected.

Perkins also hopes—but not too eagerly—to get a pair of young sea leopards to bring back. These are a species of seal which has a snake-like body, grows nine to 15 feet long, and possess a horrible set of fang-like teeth. The teeth are the reason why Perkins doesn't relish the idea. All young animals when captured have to be forced-fed for the first week or so.

They Feed on Penguins

Sea leopards, incidentally, feed on penguins, Perkins said. The poor waddling penguins also have to contend with killer whales, up to 30 feet long, which travel in packs, and may upset an ice floe to spill their penguin dinner into the water. Any penguin thrown into water where the penguin thinks there are killer whales bounces back like a rubber ball, Perkins said. Penguins wanting to swim have been observed shoving each other until one falls in the drink. If he comes up, the others take a swim.

Perkins' overall assignment is to observe flora and fauna at the world's bottom, and make collections of skins, bird eggs, and whatever comes to hand.

Has Quick Test For Germination

Geneva, N. Y.—By removing the embryos and testing them in the laboratory, the seed analysis at the Experiment Station here are now able to determine the germination of fruit tree seeds within a few days.

Fruit tree seeds exhibit varying degrees of dormancy and require from one to four months moist prechilling at low temperatures before the seed will germinate normally, explains C. E. Heit of the seed testing laboratory. By removing the embryos from the seed and placing them under controlled laboratory conditions, the approximate planting value of the stock has been determined within five to twenty days.

"Seed stocks of peach, cherry, apple, plum, pear, and apricot have all been tested in our laboratory by this means with complete success," he states. "The results secured by the embryo excision method have checked closely with normal germination of after-ripened seed. The development of the embryo in the laboratory also shows definitely whether the seed is healthy and vigorous or weak and of doubtful planting value."

In selecting seed for the production of rootstocks attention should be given to the quality of the stock as well as to its germination, asserts Mr. Heit. Preference should be given to uniform, clean stocks with high germination.

"Nurserymen and seed dealers, for their own protection, would be wise to insist on fruit tree seed which is high in purity, strong in germination, and free from injuries," concludes this authority.

Rent Action Group Asks Law Renewal

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—The joint Rent Action committee wants Governor Dewey to recommend that the 1947 Legislature renew commercial rent control laws for New York city without a change in ceilings.

Former Assemblyman John J. Lamula of New York city, legislative representative of the committee, wrote Dewey that what he termed the "real estate combine" was planning a drive to "defeat" renewal of the bill or to "offer as a deal a boost from 15 to 25 per cent" in ceilings.

The committee describes itself as an organization of 83 trade groups and associations representing 68,000 commercial tenants. Rents of flats and wholesale establishments in New York city are limited to a maximum 15 per cent increase above the March 1, 1943, level under state law. Rents of offices and retail stores are pegged at 15 per cent above the June 1, 1944, level. The laws expire next July 1.

Upswing Is Indicated

GREATER PRODUCTION

There seems to be no reason to quarrel with economists who declare that the key to the restoration of real prosperity in the country is increased production. It is, however, not just a key but the cornerstone of the American way of life.

It is generally admitted the world over that the American standard of living is based on mass production. Our people live better than the folks in any other country because of our greater and more efficient production. Our ability to turn out goods in the mass enables our producers to pay higher wages and at the same time to keep down the cost of the finished product.

To keep the production going we have to have a big market. And that big market is the United States and the first consideration for our well-being. We must do our best to get our share of the world trade but in order to do this we must not forget that the great American market with its tremendous buying power is our big "ace in the hole" and permits us to compete with low-wage countries abroad.

Fewer goods produced at higher cost will not restore normal prosperity at home, nor build a good springboard for diving after foreign trade. If increased production is what we need, then we had better look around and see what is the matter with us. Otherwise costs will continue to rise despite everything and we may encounter a buyers' strike which could plunge us into another postwar recession.

HAZARDOUS PERIOD

Statistics prove the Christmas-New Year's holiday season is the most hazardous single period of the year. More than three times as many deaths occur during the actual Christmas holidays than on the same days of the week the remainder of the year.

The normal winter hazards, such as bad weather, slippery roads and longer periods of darkness are increased by heavier travel and the festive spirit of the holiday season.

The National Safety Council seeks to create in the public mind an awareness of the special holiday hazards, and to enlist voluntary cooperation on the part of every individual to hold accidents to a minimum this Christmas.

FIRES

For every good there seems to be a corresponding evil; and for every evil, a corresponding good. Fire, the great boon which Prometheus brought from heaven to benefit the human race, is also the great destroyer. A little carelessness in a dangerous place, and the benefactor changes suddenly to wrath and destruction. Human life, which we regard lightly and take easily, seems to be living mostly on the edge of an invisible precipice.

The great wonder is that man was ever created at all. And the next wonder, perhaps, is that, with so many chances for destruction from childhood to old age, he can live so long and do so much before he passes from the scene.

MOTHER STEPS FORWARD

Something rather interesting in Pre-Christmas entertainment is reported from Cleveland, in the form of "Mothersingers." For once, at least, the mothers seem to have got the jump on the young people, with a grown-up group of many nationalities out in front, and the envious kids in the back seats, where they belong.

And why not? Mothers certainly have as much right to sing as their children, and it's probably good for the whole family to see them strutting their stuff in the limelight, while the astonished boys and girls confess that they "never knew Mother had it in her."

It is interesting to learn that "a lone mechanic" is capable of tilting and holding one of the new cars at its center, more than two-thirds off balance, as a demonstration of stability. For ourselves, we wouldn't care

THE PROBLEMS OF TRUSTEESHIPS

The Kurile Islands went to Russia, although it did not fighting for them. There has been no question of a trusteeship about them or about the right of Russia to fortify them. They have become an integral part of the Russian Empire. When, however, the question arises of the United States retaining the islands in the Pacific that are drenched with American blood, it is made to appear that this country is committing a crime even to want to hold them under a trusteeship. The Russians took the best part of Finland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania and Bessarabia and the whole of Poland without anyone batting an eye—or much of one—but when we speak about islands in the Pacific which our Army and our Navy conquered, the "New Republic" can say:

"The United States is violating the spirit of the whole UN trusteeship program in its proposal for trusteeship over former Japanese-occupied islands. Trustees are permitted to designate certain fortified spots in such mandates as 'strategic areas' where UN inspection or supervision is banned. Our proposal is to make the entire territory of the mandated islands a 'strategic area' which defeats the purpose of the Charter and amounts to annexation. The proposal is contained in a tricky worded statement that purports to oppose annexation!"

That paragraph from Henry Wallace's weekly sounds as though the United States was a war criminal. It almost reads like Elliott Roosevelt's party talk in Moscow during which he apparently ran his own country down just to be polite.

At the end of World War I, certain non-self-governing areas were designated as mandated by the League of Nations, to certain of the Great Powers under stipulations and limitations that were largely violated. The mandates were divided into three categories:

A. The mandated areas were carved out of the former Turkish Empire. These countries had reached a stage of development making it possible to recognize them as independent nations, subject to the advice and assistance of the Mandatory. That, for instance, is how the British got into Palestine;

B. These were territories, especially in Central Africa, taken from Germany, which the Mandatory had to run because the people were incapable of setting up their own government. Certain specific responsibilities and limitations were placed upon the Mandatory;

C. These areas were sparsely settled regions in Southwest Africa and among the South Pacific Islands which the Mandatory could administer as part of his own Empire. That is how Japan came into possession of her South Pacific Islands.

It was American forces that conquered the South Pacific Islands from Japan, and we might have incorporated them in the United States of America as Soviet Russia incorporated Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia into the Soviet Union. We got them and we might have kept them. And had we done so during the war, nobody could have gainsaid us, particularly as we held them by conquest and were paying so much of the expense of the war through Lend-Lease. Instead we got bogged down under an agreement to abide by a trusteeship system which makes the countries concerned a party to the discussion. It has not yet been explained to anyone how Soviet Russia is a country concerned—as she has never held any of the South Sea Islands, has not conquered them, did not fight for them, and only spent a maximum of six days in the war against Japan.

This is the article of the Atlantic Charter which deals with this question.

Article 77: "The trusteeship system shall apply to such territories in the following categories as may be placed thereunder by means of trusteeship agreements:

a. territories now held under mandate;
b. territories which may be detached from enemy states as a result of the Second World War; and
c. territories voluntarily placed under the system by peoples responsible for their administration."

2. It will be a matter for subsequent agreement as to which territories in the foregoing categories will be brought under the trusteeship system and upon what terms."

The United States needs those islands for the defense of our country, as Pearl Harbor proved. Anybody who is opposed to our holding and fortifying them seeks to impair the American defenses. It is as plain as that.

PAIN IN NECK

The discovery that many cases of persistent low backache is caused by damage to the cushion (disk) between the last and next to last joint forming the spine or backbone, has given great help to patients and to physicians treating these cases. Sometimes a support gives relief but other cases require operation.

While low back pain has been receiving much attention, upper back pain—back of neck has been considered due to infection, to poor posture and other causes. What is now being discovered is that upper back pain can be caused by a damaged cushion or disk between the bones of the spine in the region of the neck. The pressure of the flattened or damaged disk on the nerves coming out from the spinal cord causes pain in back of neck extending to shoulder and sometimes down the arm.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. L. S. James, Winnipeg, describes the signs and symptoms of protruding disk in the neck (cervical) region.

The patient seeks advice because of pain beginning in the lower part of neck, or over shoulder which extends down the arm. Most of these cases are in people past 40 years of age and no history of injury can be obtained from the patient, although injury is often the cause or partly the cause in young people. The cause in the great majority of cases is disintegration of the connective tissue—ligaments, tendons of muscles.

"The pain often comes on at night and many say that the pain is worse at night or after the head has been held in one position for a long time. The pain is made much worse by work (which is usually a sign that infection is not the cause). Coughing or sneezing often aggravates the pain or causes it to be of a shooting, stabbing nature."

My making head bend to painful side by pressure on the top of the head pain becomes worse and may extend down the arm.

The treatment consists of rest from work, mild quieting drugs, extra pillows to keep neck bent giving more room for nerves to come through from spinal cord. In severe cases operation—cutting away bone to give more room to these nerves—is performed.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Westbrook Pegler's tremendously important, completely independent and vitally interesting column will appear in The Freeman beginning next week.

Pegler has thrown the powerful searchlight of his column on graft, dirty politics, cheap chiselers, Communism, or whatever may be wrong with life in America. Racketeers, who when their shady deals had been exposed, hollered that they had been "Peglerized." In 1941 he won the Pulitzer Prize for reporting. In 1942 Knox College conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws and more than once he has been called on by official bodies, such as the House of Representatives to testify as an expert on racketeering.

Fairy Tale Attacked

Russia's leaders have set out to correct the "serious shortcomings" of children's magazines which publish "complete fairy tales" under the guise of fairy tales. They cite the tale of a little man named Bigson who fell from the moon into a country house. He is a braggart and boasts that "The Bear shivers with fright before me." Bigson, say party leaders in Moscow, is malicious and stupid and the whole story is "without any educational plan."

Skidding was a factor in three per cent of the 4,800,000 traffic accidents in 1944.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

BABSON DISCUSSES DECENTRALIZATION

New York City, Dec. 13.—We find ourselves today at a point where the more we expand an industry the greater become our difficulties. A small industry, if expanded, will probably run into labor supply difficulties. A larger industry, already beset by a shortage of skilled workers, bottlenecks and lack of materials, finds these odd nearly unmountable when endeavoring to expand. The trend is turning toward a very workable and perhaps the only solution—decentralization!

When we think of decentralization of industry we visualize small cities which have as prerequisites a good source of industrial power, low living costs and healthful living conditions for the workers.

The majority of the residents probably would be homeowners. Good shipping facilities, suitable factory buildings or sites, low taxes, a population of sufficient size and ability to supply labor demands along with reasonable access to raw materials combine to make thousands of small communities ideal factory locations.

Lower Costs for Business

The large or small industry which locates some of its plants in small places is almost sure to be rewarded by lower costs. Such businesses as the clothing industry traditionally employ women for expert needlework. There are countless small towns whose women are willing to work. But they are often unwilling to leave their home towns or even to commute. Firms which have gone into these towns have found in many cases not only a new labor supply but new plant facilities for rent—something more than scarce in big cities today. Lower costs of upkeep and repairs have been an added inducement. Easy access to raw materials can be living factors. Some of the biggest packers in the country have located poultry dressing plants in the broiler areas, thus causing savings in time and transportation costs. Another example of the wise use of small towns is seen in the building of canning factories, freezing plants and food dehydrators.

Accessibility to sources of cheap power and food make rural sections especially inviting to industry. Small cities also offer attractions for management and their families. Their women and children like the friendly conditions. The unit manager has an opportunity to develop independence of thought and action, solving industrial problems with a minimum of red tape and cost. Decentralization of industry is the trend of the times while at the same time large cities will continue to grow and prosper.

Living Conditions

A healthy environment can have a tremendous effect on the morale of workers. Although wages today are being pretty much standardized everywhere, some employees are willing to work for less where they can work in the same small town in which they live. Thus, they cut commuting costs, cost of lunches and are able to ship money home more and better for the same wages.

Added to the financial advantages of the rural worker are the advantages of extra leisure. He may walk to and from his job, work in a healthy environment, for and with men who are his neighbors and church friends. He knows that with honest effort he may be outstanding in his small community, rather than lost in an enormous one. The lack of a feeling of personal importance often causes ship-shod, don't-care attitudes among big city workers. This increase in morale may be one of the reasons for greater productivity in the small community for the same money paid in the city.

Think of Management

Small cities also offer attractions for management and their families. Their women and children like the friendly conditions. The unit manager has an opportunity to develop independence of thought and action, solving industrial problems with a minimum of red tape and cost. Decentralization of industry is the trend of the times while at the same time large cities will continue to grow and prosper.

Today in Washington

Choice of United Nations Capital Has Had to Be Careful One for United Nations Delegations
By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 13.—Selecting a permanent site for the United Nations is not a mere matter of inter-city rivalry. The American delegation has had to be careful to avoid offending any of the cities which have been seeking the honor, but the truth is there is a distinct factor of influence related to New York city as the future home of the peace organization.

The old League of Nations suffered from a lack of publicity. The American people read only brief dispatches about what was happening in Geneva. The interest was occasional rather than constant.

Already the attention given by the New York city newspapers and the press associations in dispatches and articles about the work of the United Nations in the last few months greatly exceeds all that was written about the proceedings of the old League in all the years of its existence. This is largely due to the fact that the U.N. has been meeting in New York city where the impartiality of the newspapers and the deep interest they take in the U.N. is among the gratifying developments of the post-war period.

It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of widespread publicity about the U.N. as a factor in its future success. If physical force is to be subordinated as a means of settling international disputes, then moral force becomes all important. The basic factor in moral force is understanding, which is best achieved through the widest possible dissemination of facts and by the publication of statements of opinion by all parties.

New York city also is a center of world communication. Access to all parts of the world by radio, phone and cable is instantaneous and facilities for the actual handling of the business of a worldwide organization are already adequate.

No less important, too, than the facilities of actual communication is the atmosphere of cosmopolitanism which New York city provides for the delegates themselves. There is hardly a social recreation among the nationals of its own country in New York city. Hence translators and personnel of the U.N. find New York a congenial place for their work.

From an administrative viewpoint, the announcement of a plan which will give skyscrapers to the U. N. on a large tract in the heart of New York alongside the East river is good news. To spread the U. N. over a big area of ground where the offices are far apart would not make for efficiency and would be wasteful in the long run.

The newspapers and press associations would find it much easier to keep track of what is going on in the U. N. if its activities are accessible to a compact site readily accessible than if the headquarters of a big city where the tendency would be to take a look at the U. N. only when something sensational was occurring.

The U. N. in a sense will be a part of the largest city of the world and will hear the voice of masses of people as it comes from all nationalities and all classes. Foreign language papers, American papers, pamphlets, forums, and headquarters' establishments for many national and international organizations are to be found in New York. There is an opportunity for national and international opinion to be formed in the metropolis.

Some critics thought all this disadvantage on the ground that the U. N. could do its work best in some secluded spot. But seclusion could bring indifference and it was indifference which became neglect insofar as the old League of Nations was concerned.

The U. N. with its slow-moving machinery, reflects nevertheless the slow-moving reason of a world eager for peace and especially eager for the international understanding which must be developed in an age of atomic power. With respect to the claims of other cities, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. of a valuable tract of land in midtown New York swings the balance to New York. It was not merely an act of generosity by a philanthropist. It was an act of a peace-loving man speaking for a peace-loving nation which wants to see the U. N. succeed and will not allow mere obstacles of site or building to retard the growth of the international organization which mankind hopes will end all war. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

LET'S HAVE AMERICAN FILMS

No investigation is needed to establish the overwhelming bias of Hollywood films in this world of conflicting ideologies. You can sit in your home town theatre and see for yourself—if you watch closely—the work of nearly 500 pro-Communist film writers and hundreds of other leftward contributors to public "entertainment."

I do not want that statement to be taken as an over-all indictment of the film industry. There are some pro-American producers, such as Sam Wood and Cecil B. DeMille, just to mention two; and there is the recently organized Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals, which dare to speak up against inundating odds.

But the crimson stain is so strong that Congressman John S. Wood, chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, was here the other day to plan for a sweeping investigation of this propaganda capital in January. The new Congress is expected to back the committee 100 per cent—which backing will require strong legislative action or pressure on the President and the Department of Justice.

To gauge the terrific slant of most of the writers and certain big producers you must compare film propaganda today with film propaganda of the Hitler era. While that threatening dictator was alive Hollywood lived in a state of hysteria, turning on the full power of its inflammatory imagination to incite us to war.

Today there is an equally threatening dictator across the ocean, but Hollywood is as silent on that score as a white Christmas. At least, silent in condemnation. Silent on the truth about the Stalin dictatorship.

For ten years you could hardly sit through a show without seeing Nazi heel clicking and hearing Nazi hail Hitler; yet today, with Red soldiers massed on the square in Belgrade chanting "Ti-to! Ti-to!"—do the movies bring us the awesome educational scene to the American public?

On the screen Hitler always was shown as a dictator he was, but Stalin today is shown as a savior of mankind.

If one dictator was so bad why is the other so saintly?

Why is the predominating influence in Hollywood so much in love with Soviet Russia? Why has at least one producer permitted his studio to be used by known Marxists to produce propaganda films for Russia to show in other countries? Why were these films produced secretly and why was Russia permitted to get them out of the country and show them as if Russian studios had produced them?

It's time to explain to the American people. The responsibility of Hollywood is as great as its power, and that power is so great that, in league with a war-provoking New Deal government and certain controlled radio networks, it could hurl our armies of young Americans against any nation chosen as a target or it could paralyze and confuse us—remember the confusion at the invasion of the Low Countries?—to prime us for a combined operation of the Red Fifth Column with Stalin's Germany.

Hollywood apparently is now to be used by the Reds to help divide us with Britain and perhaps even throw us militarily against her in due time.

We do not have to love Britain to see the danger of this new trend. Seizing the Palestine issue, the left wing is now setting about to picture British soldiers as Nazi-like persecutors of Jews. We are to be made to hate the British and become embroiled diplomatically with them—and thus give Stalin a free hand everywhere.

So much power in the hands of so few people is not to be ignored. The Wood committee will render a great service if it takes apart the propaganda machine before the eyes of the public.

But this committee need not be expected to fully Americanize Hollywood. That is too big a job. So great an undertaking likely will have to be supported by an aroused public. Churches and service clubs, professional societies and veterans groups should set up committees to study film propaganda well before a picture is to be shown so that the public can be informed.

An enlightened public can take the Red out of Hollywood. (Copyright 1946 by John F. Dule Co.)

U.N. Group Gives Full Approval to Arms Terms Plan

parently would have to be postponed, the United States and Great Britain planned to send their top-rank diplomats who, until last night, had been tied in the Council of Foreign Ministers.

British sources said Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin would make his second appearance before the present session when the trusteeship question comes up either today or tomorrow. It already had been announced that Secretary of State James F. Byrnes would address the Assembly on the arms reduction question when it came up for final action.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. Molotov, who has taken an active part in the Assembly and committee proceedings even while the Council of Foreign Ministers was in session, turned out for the political committee at Lake Success this morning.

Spirit of Conciliation

by the session there was marked by a spirit of conciliation and harmony, such as the delegates have rarely seen amid their stormy debates.

Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.) representing the United States expressed gratification over Molotov's presence and praised the Soviet foreign minister's action in the arms question.

"The unity of the great power is the keystone of peace," Connally declared. "If the great powers are in unison to keep before the world the objective of a world without war free from war. If they don't do it, they indulge in rivalries—the will be a roadblock on the road to peace."

Connally added:

"I am delighted to strike hands with Mr. Molotov and my British friend (Sir Hartley Shawcross).

Molotov said it must be remembered that by adopting this resolution the General Assembly is taking the first step on the road to general reduction of armaments. "The first step was optimism," he said. He hoped that by the time the Assembly "meets" next year the conventions (disarmament agreements) will have been agreed upon.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Double Role

Hollywood, Calif., Dec. 13 (AP)—Within 24 hours, the stork made Mrs. Ethel Wadler, 37, both a mother and a grandmother. Just 23½ hours before Mrs. Wadler's seven-pound daughter was born, another daughter, Mrs. Edith Hood, 18, became the mother of a daughter, also weighing seven pounds.

Parlor Pigs

Auburn, Wash., Dec. 13 (AP)—E. G. Schwieger believes there's a time and place for letting pigs in the parlor.

Flood waters inundated his farm and marooned him. Many of his 400 pigs were drowned or lost. But when rescue parties arrived Schwieger declined their offer to evacuate him, saying he had to take care of his pigs.

He had managed to drive some of them into the house where he gave them the run of the living room.

Mallman Dead Tired

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 13 (AP)—Two police squads, an ambulance, and an inhalator were sent to Mrs. Anna Ekstrand's home after she telephoned Sgt. Edgar Fellows.

"It's my son, Carl," she cried. "I've been shaking him and can't wake him."

Carl, 29, stretched out in bed, appeared lifeless. Police applied artificial respiration and then a whiff of oxygen.

Finally Ekstrand, who is a letter carrier, sat up, eyed the activities and said sleepily:

"Can't you let a fellow sleep? I'm dead tired, ma, walkin' and carryin' all that Christmas mail."

Steals Home

Chicago, Dec. 13 (AP)—Allen P. McDermott, a former lieutenant commander in the navy, converted a 12-place military glider into a mobile home he planned on using for vacation trips.

But he told the Summerdale police the ex-glider apparently has taken wing, for it was missing from a parking lot. McDermott had detached the wings and trimmed down the glider to a six foot width and 26-foot length.

Manville Puts His Eighth Wife in Jail

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)

—Tommy Manville had his eighth wife jailed yesterday—their first wedding anniversary—on a disorderly conduct charge when she called at his luxurious estate which she had left last week after a series of spats. The wife, British-born former Georgina Campbell, was held in lieu of $200 bail by Police Court

Justice Wesley M. Messersmith, who married the Manvilles. She was taken to Eastview Penitentiary to await a hearing Saturday. Police Chief Paul A. Yerick said

Manville charged his wife "tried to break up the place" when he let her in. When she left the Manville home last week, Manville had police send out a missing person alarm. The alarm later was cancelled when the wife's whereabouts became known.

Woodstock Craftsmen's Fair Marks 7 Years of Effort, Growth

Amazing Exhibit Reveals Talents of County ResidentsEighth Annual Show Is Handcraft Colossus
From Humble Start in 1939

Woodstock, Dec. 13—If you were to visit the eighth annual Holiday Fair of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen—November 29 to December 21—you would be amazed by the brilliant variety of articles on display—and for sale.

The untrained, amateur eye is overwhelmed when it surveys the Guild's headquarters—the former Jack Horner Shop on Woodstock's main stem—while the connoisseur is gratified by the preponderance of craftsmanship at its absolute best.

This year's fair represents the culmination of seven years of organization and progress by the Woodstock Guild. The display booths reflect the artisan skill of the best craftsmen in Ulster county, while the present list of 26 contributors to the Guild display includes some of the most famous names in the United States.

All Types Are Shown

The articles on display run the gamut of every conceivable type of work connected by the nimble fingers and mind of a genuine craftsman. The types of goods are endless: ceramics, metalwork and jewelry, costume and general woodcarving, leatherwork, color and design, pottery, modern needlecraft, weaving, silk screen printing, lettering for craftsmen, stencil work, painted tinware, rugs, quilts, etchings, stichings and others too numerous to mention.

Non-Profit Organization

Mrs. Blanche B. Rosett, of Woodstock, is president of the Guild, a co-operative, non-profit making organization of community workers in the crafts and their associates.

The Guild has two basic purposes: to promote and develop interests in the crafts; and to provide a center for the display and sale of the varied individual craft products of the Ulster county community. The shop is the outlet for the artisan products.

The Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen as presently set up is the outgrowth of an exhibit of craft work at the Woodstock Art Gallery in the autumn of 1939. The outstanding success of that exhibition in both sales and popularity resulted in a spontaneous demand for community organization and the Guild seeks to fill an obvious need.

Charter Members

Charter members of the organization were Ernest Brace, Helen Buttrick, Mabel Chase, Edith Roberts Cook, Louise Linden, Zulma S. Parker, Elizabeth Russ, Mary Dufresne Smith and Florence Webster. Today the membership exceeds 125 and is still growing.

The Woodstock Guild is affiliated with the American Craftsmen's Cooperative Council, Inc., which operates the famous crafts center—America House in New York city—and of which Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb is president.

Mrs. Ruth Emerich of Woodstock is chairman of the shop during the current exhibit and is assisted by volunteer workers, Mrs. Pauline Summers and Mrs. Sara Middendorf comprise the Publicity Committee.

Among Things Seen

While it is difficult to single out particular contributors for special mention, so overwhelming is the wealth of talent, it is safe to say that of more than usual interest and reflecting the highest possible craftsmanship are the ceramics of nationally known Carl Walters; the trays and tinware of Konrad and Florence Cramer; and the metal work, painted wooden boxes and tins of Edward J. Thatcher and Isabel Thatcher. Mr. Cramer, a well-known photographer, and Mr. Thatcher are members of the teaching staff and consultants of the Woodstock Guild. Mr. Cramer is a Professor of Photography at Bard College, while Mr. Thatcher was formerly instructor of metal work and woodcarving at Columbia University.

Also in the four star-class are the leather belts, bags, purses and metal work of the Steffansons—Martin and Josephine. Mr. Steffanson, an instructor in the Guild, served as director of arts and crafts in the Special Service Department of the Army Air Forces in Hawaii.

outstanding weaving and painted boxes. Reflecting unusual craftsmanship are the silver, copper and brass pieces and jewelry by Mrs. Edith Temple; the ceramics, tiles and jewelry of the Misses Alice Fisher and Gertrude Steuer, of Woodstock; the woven products of Miss Anne Thompson, considered the finest in Woodstock; and the metal works of Bertha Thompson of Washington. Miss Thompson is considered one of the finest artisans in the country.

While the aforementioned exhibits are rated among the best on display there are a host of other beautiful contributions. Included in this list and their products are:

Mrs. Edith Cook, Woodstock, weaving and silk screens; Mrs. Ethel Shulzer, Woodstock, weaving and knitting; Mrs. Judson Smith, Woodstock, stencil work. Mrs. Bessie Stowall, Woodstock, shows a wide variety of skills in character dolls for which she is outstanding, candles, weaving, knitting, and stiching.

Mrs. Clark Reed, of Saugerties, displays painted tinware of unusual beauty, while Mrs. Louise Brokenshaw of Shady, shows pottery pieces and tiles.

Among the finer ceramics contributors are Mrs. Jessie Stagg, of Shady; and Mrs. Mary Belle Barlow, of Philadelphia and Woodstock.

Outstanding rugs are displayed by Mrs. Carrie Adams, Mt. Marion; Mrs. Clarence Shultis of Bearsville; and Mrs. Christine Drogosz of Woodstock. Also shown are the rugs of Mrs. Kate Winfield, Kingston, and Eloise Cecil, of Woodstock.

Quilt Displays

The top quilt displays are the work of Mrs. Catherine Hommel, of Woodstock, and Mrs. Emily Schaffert of New Paltz.

Also rating special mention are knit articles produced by Mrs. Hilda Rasmussen, Mrs. Elizabeth Clough and Mrs. Mary Johnstone, of Woodstock; garden furniture by R. F. Paige, of Bearsville; wooden toys by Edward Reagan, Kingston; decorated, refinished furniture by Samuel Sigaloff, of Lake Hill; leather bags by Ralph Barrett, West Hurley; woven and knitted items by Mrs. Frederica Milne, Woodstock; woven articles by Mrs. Ethel Moncreux, Shady; metal work by Kimball Blochmann, Woodstock; and wood carving by Miss Winifred Haile, Woodstock; knittery by Mrs. Bertha Drüchlieb, Woodstock.

Woodcarvings Seen

The perspective here is attracted too by the fine woodcarvings of Woodstock's Samuel Wylie; metal work by Erwin Arlt, Woodstock; pottery and stichery by Mrs. Katherine Boyd, Woodstock; knitting by Mrs. Mitzie Engel, Woodstock; rugs by Mrs. George Sargent, of Kingston and Saugerties; painted screens and decorations by A. A. Champanier, of Woodstock; wood carving by Mrs. Eva Beard, Woodstock; silk screens by Mrs. Ivan Summers, Woodstock; and wood carving by Nicholas Mocharniuk, of Woodstock and New York.

Coy, Saugerties, character dolls and weaving; Philip FitzPatrick, Woodstock, pottery; Mrs. Mary Soles, Woodstock, character dolls; Mrs. Clara Hubbard, Bearsville, knittery; Mrs. Marguerite Hobert, Woodstock, weaving and knittery; also knittery by Miss Josephine Barnard, Woodstock; Mrs. Florence Winters of Mt. Expanded in 1945

The Woodstock Guild began to expand in 1945 under the able leadership of Blanche B. Rosett and a capable staff of associates in its beautiful new home in the former of the artist colony. The former Jack Horner Shop was converted into attractive workshops and salesrooms for the permanent headquarters for Guild activities. Classes in design and various crafts were offered by a staff of experienced teachers.

The Guild, as previously noted, was started in 1940 by a group of public spirited residents who were interested in sponsoring arts and crafts in the community. This association, which is a non-profit organization, began in a small way as an outlet for craftsmen living in Ulster county. It has now expanded its program to include varied courses for adults and children.

The Guild while stressing the practical application of its teaching however maintains high aesthetic standards. The educational program is headed by energetic, scholarly Miss Beatrice Gazzolo, who has studied at Teachers College, Columbia University, and also worked with artists and specialists in the crafts. The course in pottery is given by Jessie H. Stagg, president of the New York Society of Ceramic Arts. Turning on the wheel, glazing, decorated and ceramic sculpture is included in this course.

The winter and spring classes for 1946-47 are divided in four main classifications. The metalwork and jewelry, with separate men's and women's classes, is supervised by Edward J. Thatcher; Mr. Thatcher also teaches woodcarving. The leatherwork instructions are given by Martin Steffanson and Jo Steffanson. Beatrice Gazzolo, head of the Guild's educational department, heads the color and design classes.

Classes in the Workshop are designed to develop serious craftsmen. They are limited at the discretion of the directors so that students can get maximum instruction in group work. During the summer there are exhibitions, talks and demonstrations in the crafts by distinguished craftsmen. The tuition fees are payable in advance and rebates are made only in exceptional cases.

Memberships

Annual memberships in the Guild are General for $1, Contributing $5 and Sponsoring $10. Life membership costs $50. Life memberships are placed in a loan fund available to members for craft materials or tuitions.

These rates, according to Miss Gazzolo, are much lower than in the usual craft schools. In addition the Woodstock Guild orders scarce materials for students and performs other services not generally associated with craft schools.

Miss Gazzolo said the principal aim of the educational course is to develop serious craftsmen through all ages. The classes are kept small, generally amounting to private instructions. Anyone is eligible when the classes aren't filled.

The Woodstock Workshop is well equipped for metal work, wood carving, leather work and various other types of crafts. Miss Gazzolo said. The summer classes for children feature block printing, simple binding and modern needlework. There is an emphasis on pottery work in the summer. An overall course on modern design is one of the principal features of the department.

Classes generally meet once a week in winter and twice weekly during the summer. There are demonstrations in various craft, intensive lessons showing the use of materials. Among specialized subjects are silk screen printing, photography for craftsmen, lettering and leather work.

Workshop Schedule

The 1946 summer workshop schedule was the most extensive in the Guild's history. The teaching staff and consultants included:

Beatrice Gazzolo, Design for Crafts; Hand Wrought Metal and Woodcarving, Edward J. Thatcher; Leather Work, Martin and Jo Steffanson; Pottery, Jessie A. Stagg; Modern Needlecraft, Belle Northrup; Children's Workshop, Beatrice Gazzolo; Silk Screen Printing, Edith A. Roberts; Photography for Craftsmen, Konrad Cramer; Lettering for Craftsmen, Helen Buttrick, who studied Lettering with Thomas Wood Stevens of Inland Printer, Chicago.

The officers of the Woodstock Guild are Mrs. Blanche B. Rosett, president; Mrs. Ethel R. Moncreux, first vice-president; Mrs. Zulma Parker, second vice-president; Miss Josephine Barnard, secretary; and Mrs. Esther O'Meara, treasurer. Chairmen and co-chairmen of committees — chairman is listed first.

Education, Miss Isabel Doughty; Mrs. Frederica Milne; Finance Committee, Mrs. Ruth M. Enrich; House Committee, Mrs. Louise H. Lindin, Miss Beatrice Gazzolo; Membership Committee, Mrs. Christine Grant; Nominating Committee, Mrs. Katharine Boyd; Policy Committee, Mrs. Jessie A. Stagg, Mrs. Bessie Stowall; Publicity Committee, Mrs. Pauline Summers, Mrs. Sara Middendorf; Shop Committee, Mrs. Helen Thibaut, Miss Belle Northrup, Miss Helen Buttrick.

Miss Isabel Doughty and Mrs. Frederica Milne are co-chairmen of the Education Committee of the Guild. Miss Beatrice Gazzolo is Educational Director. Other directors are Konrad Cramer, Elizabeth Clough, Harriet Goddard, Alice E. Henderson, Fred Dana Marsh, Ethel R. Moncreux, Belle Bryant, Edna Quick, Blanche B. Rosett, Judson Smith, Jessie A. Stagg, Martin Steffanson, Edward J. Thatcher, Carl Walters.

Wallkill C. of C.

Meeting on Monday

The regular monthly meeting of the Wallkill Chamber of Commerce on Monday, December 16 will feature an interesting program on Finland. Eino Astikainen, a native of Finland, who now operates a gas station and is in the real estate business in New Paltz, will talk about his native country. Mr. Astikainen came to the United States in 1931 and was until recently, purchasing agent for the Mechano Ship-Repair Corporation in New York. He may illustrate his lecture with moving pictures.

The public is invited to this meeting to be held in the Central School cafeteria next Monday night at 8 o'clock. The committee in charge consists of: Kenneth Albert Macneil, Jr., Chauncy McLean, and the Rev. John Tyce.

Fifty per cent of all highway accidents occur after dark.

Woodstock Guild Has Become One of County's Novel Institutions

Woodstock's Guild of Craftsmen which has made Ulster county more conscious of its handcraft heritage than any other movement of recent years has its headquarters in one of the most picturesque of the townships dwellings. Craft rooms and shop are quartered in the former Jack Horner Shop in the center of Woodstock village adjoining the Art Gallery.

Center photo shows Instructor Edward Thatcher busy with his men's metalcraft class. Ned Thatcher, one of the pioneer residents of the art colony, is considered one of the nation's foremost metalcraft technicians and it has been said of him often, "if Ned can't do it, it can't be done." At the close of World War I Mr. Thatcher, former Columbia University instructor, conceived the occupational therapy idea for wounded veterans of making things from tin cans and his efforts above all others have turned lowly tin cans into works of art and utility. Mr. Thatcher taught his craft to countless disabled veterans. He also did the distinguished metal work in the foyer of the New York State Armory, Manor avenue, this city. Of his work at the armory, he says, "The best work I've ever done, and the grandest people I've ever worked with." Mr. Thatcher also conducts a woman's metalcraft class every Friday afternoon at the Guild headquarters. In the metalcraft photo may be seen left to right, William Mower, Irvin Arlt, Edward Thatcher and Philip FitzPatrick, of Woodstock; Silvero Davis and Lancelot Phelps, Kingston.

The bottom photo is of the interior of one of the display rooms of the Guild. In the center, facing the camera, is Mrs. Ruth Emerich, shop director, who is supervising the Christmas exhibition of Ulster county handcrafters whose works are offered for sale. Mrs. Emerich's assistants are Mrs. Fritz Smith Davis, cashier; Mrs. Edith Temple and Mrs. Cecile MacReady. (Top and center photos by Konrad Cramer, Woodstock; bottom photo, Freeman).

Chill Arctic Air Coming Your Way

So Get Out Your Winter
Woolies, Dearie, and Bundle Up

(By The Associated Press)
A mass of chill air from the Arctic regions began a slow envelopment of most of the United States today, causing unseasonably high mercury readings to plummet and bringing a forecast of real overcast and muffled weather by tonight.

Government weather forecasters said tonight temperatures over the eastern part of the nation already had started to fall and would reach freezing or below tonight and in the early morning hours from Maine almost to Florida and as far west as northern Texas.

The cold front reached the Dakotas yesterday and sent temperatures there down to zero or below extending to the east.

Maine expected zero weather and temperatures ranging up to 25 were forecast for other New England states.

The temperature at New York, where a 1 a. m. high of 61 was recorded was dropping an average of two degrees an hour, with a low of 25 to 30 expected in the early morning.

Forecasters said low temperatures on the east coast would continue until Saturday night before rising.

fire chief in charge of the rescue operations, said shortly afterwards that he doubted there were anyone left alive in the wreckage.

Was Second Blaze

This blaze, which started at about 11 p. m. Wednesday night, was the second in the ice plant in a few hours. The earlier one, occurring around 5 p. m., was put out swiftly by firemen.

Two boys, Joseph McCabe, 13, and Joseph Elia, 10, were arrested last night and held as juvenile delinquents on arson charges in connection with the earlier fire.
They, along with two other boys, had been questioned by Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet.
Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy, in a report to Mayor William O'Dwyer, said the first fire was caused by "mischievous boys."

The disaster, Brophy reported, was caused "by weakening of roof beams" of the ice plant by the second blaze, "which apparently had been burning intensely for some time before its discovery, resulting in the roof caving in and pushing out the north wall."

Twenty of the dead were residents of the tenement, the other was a fireman.
Guineen expressed doubt any further victims would be found alive after police reported rescuers had heard no word after midnight from a man believed to be Joseph Arigo, 60-year-old 265 pound chef.
Arigo's body was found today under some flooring at the rear of the building, while the man with whom the police talked yesterday was toward the front of the wrecked structure.

Dollar Value Jumps

Shanghai, Dec. 13. (AP)—The black market value of the U. S. dollar made another sensational jump today, spurring 1,000 points to a new-all-time high of $1 for 6,700 Chinese dollars. The U. S. dollar rose 500 points yesterday.
The official exchange rate is 3,350
Chinese dollars to $1.

During November 3,676
Vehicles Used Ferry; High Mark Was in August

Traffic over the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry is reflecting the approach of winter weather, as tourist business drops to a minimum and there is the normal drop in general travel.

Figures from the office of William K. Hagginbotham, secretary of the Bridge Authority, show that 3,676 vehicles made use of the ferry during November. This figure undoubtedly would have been higher had it not been for the breakdown in the middle of November, which put the ferry out of commission from Saturday noon to Tuesday morning. This not only caused the loss of a weekend business but in addition it was several days before the public became fully aware that the ferry was again operating.

High mark for the ferry was in August, which not only is high month for travel, but also was aided by the large business resulting from the Dutchess County Fair. The record shows 11,838 vehicles in August, 6,518 in September and 5,898 in October.
This is the same pattern followed by travel over the three Hudson river bridges. The low point is reached after the first snowfall and it remains low until after January 1, when it begins to pick up.

The three bridges under jurisdiction of the Bridge Authority showed an average percentage of increase in November, over the same month last year, of 34.01 per cent. Mr. Hagginbotham reported.
The Rip Van Winkle bridge at Catskill had 38,251 crossings in November against 41,838 in November 1945, a gain of 38.90 per cent.

The Bear Mountain Bridge had the greatest percentage of increase, 39.02, with 66,497 crossings, an increase of 18,316 over November 1945, while the Mid-Hudson Bridge had 168,975 crossings, an increase of 39,906, for a 30.92 per cent gain.

Both the Rip Van Winkle and Bear Mountain bridges have been averaging about 2,000 crossings a day, while the Mid-Hudson has exceeded 5,000 a day.

An overall tabulation for all three bridges, since their opening days, gives the startling total of 30 million crossings.

Monticello Jury Hears How Police Trailed Three Men

Detective Explains Trip
From New York at Trial of Trio on Safe Theft

Monticello, N. Y., Dec. 13. (AP)—
A New York city detective told a Sullivan county court jury today how he and another detective followed three men from New York city to Monticello, N. Y., the night before two safes were stolen from the Congress Hotel at Sackett Lake, N. Y., last June.

He was a witness at the trial of Walter Gulla, 31, of New York, under indictment on charges of grand larceny in the first degree and possession of burglary tools.
The other two men, George Gulla,
23, brother of Walter, and Frank Leotta, 25, pleaded guilty to grand larceny at the opening of the trial yesterday.

Detective Dominick J. Donato, of the New York city safe and loft squad, testified that he and Arthur Setran, another detective of the safe and loft squad, followed the three men traveling in two cars in a trip around Manhattan the night before the safes were stolen.

Finally, he told the jury, the two men drove their cars over the George Washington Bridge across the Hudson river, into New Jersey and up Route 17. They made two stops en route to change license plates on the two cars.
Donato testified, and then drove to Monticello, where Donato said he lost them in traffic.

Donato said he and his companion then called state police.
Walter Gulla was arrested in his automobile a few hours after the safes were stolen, and the other two were picked up a few hours later in another car. The safes were found intact in the woods near Loch Sheldrake the afternoon of the theft.

White House Is To Give Housing Pronouncement

Statement Will Come
After Conferences on Revised Program;
Other News

Washington, Dec. 13. (AP)—The promise of a new White House pronouncement on national housing policy emerged today from the discussions of the issue which engaged the cabinet, other high administration officials, and a congressional committee.

Charles G. Ross, presidential secretary, told reporters that there will be a formal statement at the conclusion of a series of conferences on the revised program.

Meanwhile there were these other principal developments in the housing field:

The Veterans of Foreign Wars,
through its Legislative Director Omar B. Ketchum, told a Senate small business subcommittee that the V.F.W. will stiffly oppose any program for easing controls on non-residential construction.

Raymond M. Foley, new administrator of the National Housing Agency, in a formal statement advocated less emphasis on actual direction from above in carrying out the housing program.

The cabinet in regular session with President Truman, took up the general housing question.

The conferences of top housing officials were set for resumption at 4 p. m. (E.S.T.) and to continue tomorrow.

The meetings started yesterday with announcement of Foley's appointment to be housing administrator and that of Frank Creedon to be expediter of the veterans emergency housing program, splitting the two jobs Wilson Wyatt formerly held.

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars," Ketchum told the senators, "will continue to insist on rigid controls on non-housing construction and the channeling of building materials into veterans housing."

Associates said meanwhile that Creedon, the new expediter, advocates loosening the curbs.
Foley expressed his "belief in a coordinating type of over-all agency for long-range housing activities, rather than one with directive powers over constituent units which have responsibilities under separate statutes."

Unique Exhibit Of Doll Furniture At Senate Museum

The public is invited to call and see a unique and timely exhibit of doll furniture, now in place at the Senate House Museum on Fair street. The collection has a special attraction at this time, when so many toys are being displayed for the benefit of the patrons of Santa Claus. The comparison between the old and the new is found to be very interesting.

Some of the toys being shown at the museum supposedly were made by Nicholas Vanderlyn, father of the famous painter, John Vanderlyn, for his children, museum authorities state. They add that in the old days the tiny furniture and dolls generally were carved and fashioned out of wood.
They are very crude and quaint in comparison with the beautiful modern dolls and mechanical toys of today.

This unique exhibit may be seen between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. on week days and from 1 to 5 p. m. on Sundays.

Carriers Are Told They and Shippers Need to Cooperate

Transportation Field Is One Which Calls for Understanding
Says Clayton

The entire transportation field would be better off if existing differences and misunderstanding between shippers and carriers could be smoothed out, William G.
Clayton, Jr., general manager of the New York Carriers Conference, Inc., told approximately 100 members of the Mid-Hudson Traffic Club last night at the Nelson House in Poughkeepsie.

The occasion was the annual meeting and installation of officers of the Traffic Club, which is made up of representatives of shippers and carriers of the mid-Hudson area.

Walter C. Pine, of Poughkeepsie, was re-elected president, while all other officers were re-named to their posts in recognition of excellent services during the past year. Other officers are John Hamilton, Poughkeepsie, first vice-president; Randolph Flemming, second vice-president; Miss Mildred Hutchinson, secretary; and Stanley Mallory, treasurer.

Mr. Clayton outlined the Public Service Commission regulations covering exemptions, certificates of operation, rates and charges for common contract carriers, and lawful appeals and rebates and concessions.

The speaker forecast five years of adjustment on rates and pleaded for both shippers and carriers to assume an attitude that would embrace not only their own interests but those of the general public.

The organization's board of directors was instructed to arrange succeeding meetings in Kingston and Newburgh.

Harry Rigby, Jr., vice-president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, and Calvin D. Myers, president of the Newburgh Chamber of Commerce, pledged their support in obtaining additional memberships among the shippers and carriers of Newburgh and Kingston.
They also endorsed the policies of the organization.

Attending the meeting from Kingston were Maynard Mize,
Secretary Don Williams of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mr.
Rigby.

Iranians Push On To Reoccupy City

Provincial Capital Seized
Year Ago by Leaders of Revolutionaries

Mianeh, Azerbaijan Province,
Iran, Dec. 13. (AP)—Iranian government troops pushed northward today to reoccupy the Azerbaijan provincial capital of Tabriz, where separatist revolutionary leaders seized power a year ago during the Soviet occupation.

(A Tabriz radio broadcast was quoted in Tehran as saying all "democrats," as the Separatists called themselves, had fled Tabriz and that the city was now in the hands of its people under martial law.)

(Iranian army headquarters announced last night that the western spearhead of its armed movement into Azerbaijan had captured Tabriz, a city on the Kurdish-Azerbaijan border, after heavy fighting with 5,000 Fadaeis, the Azerbaijanian militia.)

It was not clear whether this action occurred before or after the Azerbaijanian Council announced Wednesday its capitulation to the demand of Premier Ahmed Qavam for assignment of security forces to all areas of Iran for election duty. It was to enforce the premier's order that the government troops crossed the Azerbaijan border Tuesday.)

Most observers said that the army's presence in Azerbaijan would mean the end of the semi-autonomous provincial government which was set up in agreement with the central government in Tehran after the Separatist revolt.

Azzam Mohamed Zulfaghari, head of the Zulfaghari tribes whose warriors are among the government forces, said he entered Mianeh yesterday ahead of the troops and received a warm welcome. The residents, he said, sacrificed sheep and cattle and made gifts to the poor in celebration of the return of the Tehran government authority.

At a recent troop investiture, six tenderfoot scouts received their pins from Mrs. Kurdt, leader, assisted by Genevieve Lester. The tenderfoots were Nancy LaFour, Dgreen Silliman, Irene Van Darnmark, Joan Snyder, Patricia Swanson, Mildred Naegle. The girls working for their first aid badges and the tenderfoot scouts, are making a "Thinking Day" box to be shipped overseas before Christmas.

POLITE WAY OF ASKING TO HAVE BOOK RETURNED

It is always curious to find that people are careless about books, especially books on serious subjects. The situation described in the following letter is, unfortunately, not at all unusual: "How not to offend a friend under the circumstances is my problem. My husband always has made it a hard and last rule not to lend even one book out of his extensive collection. He loves his books too well, he says, to risk having them mistreated. Just once did he make an exception and that was a few months ago. He let a friend of mine take a valuable book on collecting antiques. Since then, she has moved quite a distance away and we have heard nothing of my husband's book. He would like me to write and get it back, as several times lately he has wanted to consult it. How do I write a letter of this kind?"

Simply say, "I hate to bother you because I am sure that you are busy unpacking and that when you come to it, you will return it, but John very much needs the book on antiques for something he is writing."

Concerning Stepmothers
Dear Mrs. Post: Inasmuch as many people feel that the term "stepmother" is opprobrious and you feel "My father's wife" is much more distant, what would you think of my idea of calling a stepmother, who has been a real mother, "Second Mother"? If she is conscientious about her husband's family and they are devoted to her, then actually isn't that what she is to them—their second mother?

Answer: "I think 'Second Mother' would be very awkward to say. If she is at all young, the modern use of first names would make your calling her 'Mary' seem quite proper. Or if she is older, 'Mother May' or 'Mama Mary' is a loving as well as very suitable title. Otherwise, another name meaning mother, such as 'Mummy,' 'Mater' or 'Mom' would be proper."

A Bride's Younger Brother
Dear Mrs. Post: When a bride is in the late twenties and has no family except a brother who is five years younger than she, whose name should be used on the formal wedding invitations?

Answer: Her own name and the bridegroom's name would be the usual choice, but there is no objection to using the brother's name if she prefers to do so.

Could your manners pass an etiquette test? Send for Mrs. Post's leaflet, "An Etiquette Test," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Miss Yellow Robe Is Women's Club Speaker

The guest speaker at the December meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Women's Club was Miss Evelyn Yellow Robe, a full-blooded Sioux Indian, who is a member of the English Department faculty at Vassar College. Her subject was "Indian Americans," and she described many of the habits and customs of the Indians. Mrs. Conrad J. Heiselman, member of the club's program committee introduced Miss Yellow Robe.

The speaker wore a ceremonial robe weighing 18 pounds. Made of deerskin it was dyed blue and trimmed with white fringe and a beaded yoke. She also wore a silver belt caught with rounds of silver which indicated the wealth of the Indian girl's father. Because of the weight of the robe, Miss Yellow Robe said that the girls did not do much dancing in the ceremonies. She described the ritual dances and sang a war song as well as two songs for children. Mrs. Ralph Harper, accompanied by Mrs. C. Franklin Pierce, sang three Indian songs. During the business meeting the members were reminded to bring towels for the Y.W.C.A. kitchen. Thirty-five were contributed yesterday. The women were asked to make suggestions for the Y.W.C.A. work particularly with younger girls and the industrial workers.

There are a few openings in the Music Appreciation Group of the club and members were invited to take advantage of these. The group will meet next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Fred J. K. Ertel, 322 Albany avenue, for a Christmas party. Members were invited to attend the Dramatic Group whose next meeting will be in January.

The January meeting of the Women's Club on January 9 will be centered around the topic of antiques and Mrs. Clarence Dumm asked all members to bring something which was rare or something which was particularly well-liked that was old. Each member is asked to give the history or story of the article. Miss Mary L. Johnson of "Vesteyear," will be the speaker.

About 75 attended the meeting Thursday afternoon as the club enjoyed guest privileges. Mrs. Edwin Phelan and Mrs. Willis Locke were hostesses. Tea was arranged by Mrs. Ray LeFever with Mrs. James Rowe assisting in pouring. The table was arranged in keeping with the Christmas season.

Bicycle Recovered

The bicycle of Sally Ann Rose of 193 Clinton avenue, which had been reported to the police Wednesday afternoon as stolen, was recovered Thursday. It was found by Roy Meyers, abandoned in the backyard at 297 Wall street.

U.N. Assembly Decision On Franco Is Hot Potato

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly today tossed one of its hottest issues into the laps of its 54 members by recommending withdrawal of diplomatic representatives from Franco Spain and a British spokesman immediately announced his country would "very shortly" recall its ambassador from Madrid.

A government source in London said Sir Victor Mallet, British Ambassador to Spain, would be recalled in accordance with the U.N. resolution, declaring the Franco government to be a "fascist regime." The informant said D. F. Howard would be designated British chargé d'affaires in Madrid and that the embassy probably would be reduced to the status of a legation.

In Madrid a Spanish foreign ministry spokesman said it was "too early" for comment on the U.N. Assembly vote. No official Spanish comment on the U.N. vote was expected until after the regular cabinet meeting, scheduled for 5 p. m. today.

Diplomats in Madrid who would be affected by the U. N. resolution include ministers from the Dominican Republic and El Salvador, which voted against the U.N. resolution, and the Netherlands and Turkey, which abstained from voting. All other U.N. diplomatic missions in Spain are headed by charges d'affaires, some of whom have the personal rank of ministers but not of ministers plenipotentiary.

No U. S. Ambassador

The United States has had no ambassador at Madrid since the return of Norman Armour.

To strengthen its recommendation for action, the Assembly included a clause asking all members to report what action they had taken. It was the Assembly's first concrete action against the Falangist regime during its long and bitter debates over what to do with a man who once aligned himself with Hitler and Mussolini.

The final resolution, a compromise gleaned from a series of proposals ranging from outright economic sanctions to a direct appeal to Generalissimo Francisco Franco to get out, also made these specific recommendations:

"That the Franco government be barred from membership in any organization affiliated with the U. N. The present Madrid government already has been banned from the U. N. itself.

"That if the Franco regime still remains in power after 'a reasonable time' the Security Council consider 'adequate measures' to remedy the situation.

Vote Was 34 to 6

The action was taken by a vote of 34 to 6, the negative votes coming from Argentina, Costa Rica,

Five-Nation Group Would Hit Lies Against Russians

Belgrade, Dec. 12 (delayed) (AP)—A new five-nation Slav alliance, urged to "fight against spreading lies against the Soviet Union," emerged today from the All-Slav Congress here.

The organization, set up yesterday as the four-day Congress closed, embraces Russia, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Yugoslavia and 12 component Slav nationalities.

By recommendation of the Soviet delegate, Lt. Gen. A. C. Gunderov, Belgrade was chosen as the permanent seat as an "expression of deep respect for the Yugoslav peoples, who were the first victims of Fascist occupation to unite in the general struggle against the enemy."

Here a committee of five representing the several countries will function continuously, promoting the "cultural and economic interests of all Slav peoples" through an information group, a press group and a group for mass organizational work.

Gunderov, whose recommendations generally were followed in establishing the alliance, said: "Slav organizations together with progressive international organizations should wage an untiring struggle against the remnants of Fascism and warmongers."

"They should fight against spreading lies against the Soviet Union and Slav countries and they should spread true information concerning them."

He termed "Slav progressive immigration" to other countries throughout the world—a "link which can strengthen the friendship of the Slav peoples with the Democratic peoples of the world."

Gunderov said that in all Slav countries the "roots of reaction have been extirpated" and basic people's wealth had been put into the hands of the state.

The second wife of a rich Wall Street broker just signed a check for $14,000 worth of madame's "garments" and Yehudi Menuhin's Australian bride is wearing a $40,000 tulle dress, not one garment of which can be seen on the street.

To a layman without the merchandise looks pretty, delicate, old-fashioned and as though it belonged in a museum instead of a dresser drawer. Mme. Kadar scorns brassieres entirely and denounces slips as "unwomanly." She sticks to an ancient last of camisoles and chemises.

The chemises, fitted to the customer's taste in the shop, are usually of chiffon or satin that are tucked, embroidered, appliqued, and embellished with lace. Madame has a bizarre taste for deep blues and high cyclamens which are supposed to make gentlemen mutter: "Ah ladies are filled with mystery."

Weather Turned Colder At 6:45 This Morning

Lowest temperatures last night, as registered at the city engineer's office, was 50 degrees, at 8 a. m. The chart showed 61 degrees during the night and until about 6:45 this morning, when it began to get colder. The highest point reached Thursday was 50 degrees.

The rainfall Thursday amounted to but two-tenths of an inch, according to the official gauge at the city hall. It was the first of any consequence since November 26, when the same amount was measured.

Nyack Man Appointed
Berlin, Dec. 13 (AP)—Lt. Col. Howard P. Jones of Nyack, N. Y., former deputy comptroller of New York state, was appointed chief of the public finance branch of the American Military Government for Germany today. Jones, prior to entering military service 38 months ago, also was executive director of the National Municipal League for 10 years and an inspector at the University of Michigan.

Was Brandishing a Knife
Answering a call from the office of Dr. M. H. Downer at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, where a man was said to be brandishing a knife. Officers Ronnenberg and Burns took into custody Joseph Bernatowicz. He was brought to police headquarters, where he was held for examination today.

WHERE WERE YOU TILL THIS HOUR?! STOP MUMBLING!!
SPEAK UP! SEE IF YOU CAN TALK YOUR WAY OUTA THIS!

Doctor—What's the matter, Sailor, did those injections make you sick?
Naval Student—No, the Drum and Bugle Corps.
When you talk you say only something you know, but when you listen you learn what someone else knows.
Man—Are you a good carpenter?
Applicant—Yes.
Man—Then how do you make a Venetian blind?
Applicant—Stick your finger in his eye.

People are funny. They spend money they don't have, to buy things they don't need, to impress people they don't like, for reasons they don't understand.

Young Housewife—These eggs certainly are small.
Grocer—Straight from the farm this morning, madam.

Young Housewife—That's the trouble with these farmers. So anxious to get their eggs sold they take them off the nest too soon.

It was a dark alley in one of the worst parts of town. Three men were waiting. One of them pulled a slouch hat down over his eyes and said:

First Man—Dya see him?
Second Man (taking a quick peek around the corner)—Yes, here he comes.

The man with the slouch hat picked up a short thick section of pipe. Another took a heavy wrench and the third grabbed a smaller wrench that was nonetheless effective in close quarters.

First Man (whispering)—All right, fellers, let's go.

And thus, when the boss got around the corner, he found his three plumbers busily at work.

Mrs. Brown (confiding)—When ever I'm down in the dumps I buy a new hat.
Mrs. Smith—Is that so? I've often wondered where you got them.

Junior came to his mother with an expression of anxiety on his face.

Junior—Mother, if a poor hungry little boy was to come to the back door and ask for something to eat, would you give him that piece of pie that was left over from Thanksgiving dinner?

Mother—Yes, Junior, of course I would.

Junior (this face clearing)—All right. Just a minute till I run to the back door.

Only uncomfortable chairs become antiques.

Comfortable chairs are worn out by use in a single generation.

A strong voice does not necessarily denote a strong argument.

Woman—Before marriage a woman knows all the answers.
Husband—After marriage, she knows all the questions.

The number of window panes missing in the neighborhood should have a corresponding number of pains present in little boys with sling-shots.

The wise man is content when he gains his own approbation, but the fool is happy only when he hears the applause of those about him.

Specialist—Could you afford to pay for an operation if I decided that one was necessary?

Patient—Well, Doc, tell me this: Would you decide that one is necessary, if I couldn't afford to pay for it?

Spending a month at some high-priced hotel on the sands in Florida would be nice if it didn't mean spending the next 11 months on the rocks.

Buried Treasure Sought

Before the Island of Heligoland, former German fortress in the North Sea, is rendered completely useless by Allied bombing, a hunt for "buried treasure" is to be made, Berlin reports.

Charts drawn by the islanders will show where private valuables were hidden just before the evacuation. Already considerable destruction has been reported and early next year the island will be demolished by blowing up 1,000 tons of ammunition stored in 14 miles of tunnels beneath the rock.

Fire Threatens Center Of Business District

Rutherford, N. J., Dec. 13 (AP)—The center of this borough's business district was menaced last night by a general alarm fire which raged a garage and resulted in smoke and water damage to six adjacent stores.

By the time the blaze was brought under control by firemen from five municipalities, one man had died of a heart attack, another was burned, and damage to the garage, known as the Bergen Auto Company, was estimated at $200,000. No estimate of the damages to the stores was available.

Police identified the dead man as Morris Handler, 58, owners of the building which housed three of the damaged stores.

The first public library in New York city was established in 1697.

U.A.W. to Demand 23.5 Cents
Hourly Boosts for 900,000

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.) will head into its 1947 contract negotiations with demands for general wage increases of 23.5 cents an hour for its 900,000 members—a total of $1,692,000 a day.

"Catching up with inflation is an immediate and imperative demand of our workers," Union President Walter P. Reuther said in announcing the decision of U.A.W.'s international executive board last night. He said the increase could be granted without an increase in prices.

More than a half-million more non-union workers in the auto trades also would benefit from any increases won by U.A.W., Reuther said in announcing demands at a news conference after a board session.

Additional demands which cannot yet be reckoned in dollars and cents include proposals for an equalization fund to assure the same wages for workers performing the same tasks throughout the industry, and Social Security and retirement plans.

It was estimated that these demands in addition to the 23.5 cents hourly increase would make the overall raise demand approximately 30 cents an hour.

A 30-cent hourly wage increase would amount to about 22.5 per cent.

The U.A.W. demand on wages still was below a C.I.O.-adopted survey maintaining industry could afford wage rises up to 25 per cent without increasing prices. Adoption of the survey by Robert R. Nathan, former government economist and now a private economic consultant, was announced in Washington Wednesday by C.I.O. President Philip Murray.

Sees Car Prices Jump

C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors, said in Chicago Tuesday that the cost of an automobile was nearly all payroll, and car prices would go up 25 per cent if wages were raised that much.

Spokesmen for Ford, Chrysler and General Motors had no immediate comment in Detroit on Reuther's announcement.

Present average wage for auto workers is $1.33 an hour. Reuther said, adding the proposed increase would bring total wage hikes to 53.8 cents since January, 1941.

"We shall continue to press for wage increases without price increases, so that the people of this country shall have the purchasing power to maintain full production and full employment and to assure wide distribution of national prosperity throughout the entire population," Reuther said in a statement.

Zero-Vision Fog
Disrupts England

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—One of the worst fogs in a generation disrupted transportation throughout England today after a zero-visibility night in which creeping buses and trains had to be guided by flares.

A feeble sun cut patches in the thick fog blanket in some sections but only in few areas did visibility exceed 50 yards.

It was down to five yards at dawn on central London's broad and cheese hill and thousands of motorists abandoned their cars during the night. About 2,500 persons "marooned" in Wembley Stadium after an ice hockey match slept on the floor, in chairs and on tables.

Increased Aid Urged

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Dec. 13 (AP)—Increased state aid for public schools is urged by the New York State Senate to permit cost-of-living increases in pay for teachers. Delegates to the 74th annual convention also recommended in resolutions adopted last night that a state appropriation supplement federal funds for school lunch programs.

coining profits at a far greater rate than ever in the past, in peace or in war," Reuther said that America enters 1947 "with the most inflated boom that ever preceded a bust in all the long history of private enterprise in the United States."

Tiny Townsend Wins Unanimous Decision Over Champion; Kingston Chiefs Return for Pro Cage Game Here Saturday

Local Boxer Leads Heavier Opponent Through Feature

Keough-Burrone Signed for December 26 Bill; Flagg, Emberson Also Win Thursday Night

Displaying true characteristics of a big-time fighter, Tiny Townsend, 178, Kingston light-heavyweight, scored the biggest victory of his career at municipal auditorium Thursday night when he out-boxed and out-punched Willie Champion, 203, Cleveland heavy-weight to gain a sensational unanimous five round decision in B'nai B'rith's feature bout.

Entering the ring with a 25-pound handicap, Townsend fought a terrific fight all the way with the much heavier but slower leather-puncher from Ohio.

Boxing fans who were well pleased with last night's card also commented favorably with Sam Ribber's announcement that the next card, scheduled for Thursday night, December 26, will feature a return match between Jackie Keough of Cleveland and Tony Burrone, upstate slugger Keough won a five round decision over Burrone on the December 4 card. The semi-final for the next card will feature Eddie Morton of Albany and Eddie Anderson, promising upstate boxer.

Crowd Yells Approval

As soon as Sam Ribber announced that Townsend had been awarded the unanimous decision, the packed crowd yelled its approval. Monk Armstrong, Townsend's handler, jumped into the ring and threw his arms around Tiny. Jimmy Rouse, Albany heavyweight, who was defeated by Champion earlier this year, also appeared and congratulated the smiling victor. Rouse now a pro with 17 victories who will soon go to the west coast for a series of matches was in Townsend's corner during the five rounder last night.

While fight fans stood in the aisles looking on with awe, Townsend strolled over to the WKNY microphone and responded to a request by Dick McCarthy to say a few words. The victor remarked, "Champion is a good boy. Townsend and Champion came out fast in the first round with Tiny breaking in with a left which caught his Cleveland adversary on the jaw. Champion, dead-pan as always, stalked Townsend while the latter weaved and bobbed around. Tiny, displaying plenty of gameness, plowed in again and fired a hard left to Champion's jaw. Neither punch hurt much, however it was Tiny's round.

The Kingston pugilist, knowing Champion's lethal one-two punch, kept his weaving in and out during the second round and managed to tag Willie with a couple of lefts to the ribs and chin. Champion caught Tiny with a hard right to the head for one of his few punches early in the round but the latter stood up under the blow and returned two lefts to the jaw. This also was Townsend's round.

Although Tiny appeared to be getting tired after his first two brisk rounds, he landed a smashing left flush on the chin of his foe at the start of the third round. Willie bounded back and stabbed a short right over Tiny's head and then chopped the Kingston boxer on the back of the head. Referee Emmett Ryan parted the two boxers with a warning to Champion and they shook hands. The crowd booed Champion. Townsend's downfall appeared imminent in this round after the crack on the head. His mouthpiece spurted to the canvas and he seemed dazed by the blow.

Townsend came back strong after the withering punch in the fourth round, however, and again waded into the stalk-like Champion with fists darting out and catching Willie on the jaw and body. Tiny, still boxing a smart bout, continued to evade Willie's punches by weaving, but opened up in one flurry and sent two damaging blows with his left to

TINY TOWNSEND

Champion's head. Willie, upset by the blows, caught Tiny with a right which turned Tiny around as the bell ended.

Try for Knockout

After a cautious opening in the fifth round, both gladiators mixed it willingly with both trying for a knockout punch. Townsend poured in three straight left hand wallops to Champion's head as Willie returned with two hard right jabs to his foe's mid-section.

Flagg Is Victor

Roosevelt Flagg, 125, Albany, took the semi-final attraction last night with a five round decision over Chuck Wilkerson, 122, Cleveland, in a fast bout.

Flagg opened with a flurry of rights to Wilkerson's mid-section and followed in with staggering lefts. Wilkerson's best round was the third when he landed a blow with a ripping left-hand drive to the stomach but Flagg came back again and managed to hold his edge in the round.

The Albany boxer waded into Wilkerson with a terrific one-two punch which had his foe at bay for the better part of the fight.

Emberson Beats Zoldac

In a special five-rounder Barney Emberson, 118, Kingston, took a hard-fought battle from Joe Zoldac, 115, Cleveland. Zoldac, who defeated Carmine Virgilio earlier this year, exhibited an unusual style last night but it just wasn't his night.

Barney damaged Joe early in the fight and opened a cut in Zoldac's mouth. Joe threw away his mouthpiece in the third. Barney kept jabbing at that section hoping to fold the Cleveland boy but the latter stayed on and finished the bout.

Other Results

Frank Bunce, 130, Kingston, took a three-round decision over Herb Johnson, 132, Kingston.

Dave Brandon, 168, Kingston, outpointed Gil Brown, 160, Albany.

Tommy "Tiger" Davis, 152,

Ring Fans Give $358 for Veterans

Boxing fans who attended Thursday night's card of amateur bouts sponsored by B'nai B'rith at the municipal auditorium contributed a sum of $358 for the hospitalized veterans at Castle Point.

Before the semi-final went on last night Sam Ribber introduced Mayor William Edgemuth who gave a short speech on the worthy cause which is being sponsored by the Victory League, headed by women bowlers of Kingston, and later several ladies passed through the audience to collect the contributions.

Those who aided in the collection were Betty Boyce, Marcia Runowich, Evelyn Dolson, Rita Fredericks, Phil Gehringer, Mrs. Sam Moss and Mrs. Dewey Logan.

Kingston, decided Johnny Chaplin, 150, Albany.

Al DeFelice, 135, Poughkeepsie, was awarded T.K.O. in second round over Jimmy Pillsworth, 130, Kingston.

George LaMonk, 160, Newburgh, won T.K.O. over Lyle Bliss, 161, Albany. Bliss was unable to finish the third round.

Officials last night were Bob Steele and Bill Singer, judges; Mort Finch, timekeeper; Emmett Ryan and Joe Vozdik, referees.

Bears and Giants Are Attracting No Mere Hay as Payoff

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Chicago Bears and the New York Giants have reasons to believe Santa Claus will hit town early.

The windy city whizbangs and stout Steve Owens' touchdowns probably will be pitching at the fanciest pot 'o' gold in all pro football history when they play for the National League championship Sunday.

Tickets are still going like the melted butter at a clam bake. League Commissioner Bert Bell's office figure if sales continue at the present rate there'll be 50,000 fans on hand and $185,000 in the pot when the stew comes to a boil at the Polo Grounds.

That would make most previous assault-and-battery tournaments of the National League look like cozy get-togethers.

Top previous gate was the $164,542.40, chipped in by well-iced fans in Cleveland last year.

Despite the heavy odds of each, in sight this year it is doubtful if individual players will get as much as those in last year's playoff. Last year the Cleveland Rams took home $1,469 each, while individual Washington Redskins collected $902 for losing.

This time the best guess is that the Giants will collect about $1,340 each if they finish on top, and that if the Bears win the "take" will be $1,315 per Bear.

Pros to Quit Miami

Miami, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Professional football was expected to bow out of Miami tonight when the hapless Miami Seahawks entertained the Brooklyn Dodgers in their last home game of the season and perhaps for sometime to come. Several Miami groups reportedly are interested in taking over the franchise in the All America Conference but little progress has been made and the team is expected to move to some other city. A price tag of $200,000 has been placed on the Seahawks by James Garner, Atlanta backer and principal stockholder, but interests here can't see such an investment in a club that failed to draw as much as 10,000 for any home game.

Potters Will Play Clippers in Prelim At City Auditorium

Feature Cage Contest Is Slated for 9:15 P. M.; Lockheed Ready for Full-Time Duty

The high-scoring Kingston Chiefs, a collection of stellar professionals, return to the municipal auditorium Saturday night at 9:15 o'clock to meet the strong Newark Bobcats of the American League.

Potters in Prelim

Potter Brothers, members of the Y. M. C. A. Senior Basketball League, will engage the Kerhonkson Otto Clippers in the preliminary at 8 o'clock.

This will be the Chiefs' first home game on the Broadway boards since November 16 when they crushed the Jersey Reds by the score of 67 to 46 in a wild-scoring affair. A week later the Chiefs made it two in a row by trouncing the Long Island Bombers, 64 to 57.

"Although our club hasn't seen any action in Kingston lately we have been drilling hard in a number of workouts," Coach Roddy Cooney, former St. Francis College basketball coach commented this morning.

Crowd Is Anticipated

Although crowds at the first two local pro games weren't up to expectations, a bigger turnout is anticipated for Saturday's contest when local fans will not only be anxious to see the Chiefs back in action but to welcome back two former favorites Moe Frankel and Big Al Benson—who played here a few years ago.

Both Frankel and Benson are the bulwarks of the Newark squad and reports from American League cities indicate that the veteran professional performers are still playing great ball this year.

Lockheed to Play

Art Lockheed, who dumped in 18 points in his first game here will be ready for action this week. A. B. "Turk" Karam, manager of the Chiefs reported this week

JOE DINKWOOD

Lockheed missed the second game with the Bombers due to illness. Lockheed, a former St. Francis College star, was a tower of strength for the Chiefs in the local opener and his presence tomorrow will put the Chiefs at top strength for their meeting with Newark.

Another famous St. Francis College luminary, Joe Dinkwood, will be stationed in the backcourt for Saturday's contest at the auditorium. Dinkwood, lining up with Larry Dodick at the guard slots for the Chiefs, represent two of the finest backcourt stars seen here in some time. Dinkwood, also possesses a strong scoring eye as his play in the two games indicate when he scored 10 in the first and six in the second.

Sale of reserved seats for Saturday's contest is still on and choice seats may be obtained by calling the American Legion Building, 1914.

Families Fight It Out

There was a lively set-to outside the little town of San Mateo, Mexico, and four persons were sent to a hospital when two husbands and wives met and fought it out. Francisco Vasquez and his wife, Camila, were walking along the road leading away from town when they ran into some old-time enemies, Maximino Samano and his wife, Hilaria, returning to town. Old scores were raked up and a four-cornered fight resulted, in which all contestants suffered injuries.

stage and have just come to the point of changing over from a straight ball to a hook. One of two things is done correctly in trying to develop a hook delivery. Either there is not enough allowance for the right-to-left turn of the ball because it is delivered from the identical spot on the far right side of the alley from which a straight ball had been released, or, as in the case of the troubled "out-and-in" writer, it is started too far in the middle of the alley. The correction in both instances calls merely for adjusting the stance—the out-and-in bowler to move to the right a few inches and in practice learn just how much his hook will "take" on fast, medium and slow alleys. Once this is determined he will easily acquire control by aiming at the No. 6 pin (slow alley), the No. 3 (medium alley) and the left side of the No. 3 (fast alley).

A ball driven consistently high on the headpin is POINTED because the outside angle of its release doesn't leave room for hook-turn. Shifting the stance is the simple remedy. Start a hook 10 to 15 inches from the gutter, no more, and use regulated, medium speed.

Army Too Well Fed
The Allied East African Command is eating too much, by 100 tons of food a day, according to the supply department in Nairobi. Though the Command is on its way out, with its numbers being constantly diminished, its units are ordering for more than their total strength, says Colonel Warwick, assistant director of supply, and every month 25 per cent more rations are issued than is required for the number of men in the whole command. A check is being made to see where the waste originates.

ALLOW FOR HOOK: I have a letter in which a bowler asks advice on how to hold his "out-and-in" hook in the pocket—on the right side of the setup. He writes that when he reduces speed the ball breaks sharply and high on the head pin, and that when speed is applied the ball loses its hook almost entirely and misses the head pin on the right. His trouble is common among bowlers who are in the beginner

Aborn Cagers Nip Hustlers In Y.M.C.A. Loop, 45 to 38

Last Half Rally Decides Close Game Thursday; Locke Nets Top Score of 15 for Winners

Overcoming a 19 to 12 deficit in the last two periods of play, the Aborn quintet rode home on a slim victory in the Y.M.C.A. Senior Basketball League Thursday night with a 45 to 38 verdict over the Hustlers.

With only four minutes left to play in the game both teams were tied at 38-all but the Aborns branched out and broke through with the deciding margin of victory.

Pacing Aborns to the win which puts the club into a three-way tie for first was Will Locke, guard, who amassed 15 points. Locke flipped in seven fields and one foul. Charlie Bock and Tommy Maines were next with 10 points apiece. Lawrence and Jordan topped the losers with 13 and 11 respectively.

The Hustlers took a 19 to 12 lead in the first two periods of play when they started fast and caged some nice shots from the side and mid-court. The Aborn five was having trouble with short shots.

Next Games Tuesday

Another big triple-header is on the docket for the "Y" court next Tuesday night, December 17, starting at 7 o'clock. Maddens will meet the Chez Elmie five at 7 o'clock. Aborns take on the V.F.W. five at 8 o'clock. The final attraction finds Potters meeting the Marines at 9 o'clock.

In the opener St. Joseph's took a slim 14 to 13 margin in the first half of play and managed to hold on and protect the lead during the closing periods. Crosby scored 10 for the winners while Finkle tossed in nine for the losers.

St. Mary's pulled the game out of the fire after trailing 10 to 7 in the first half. D. McGrane's 10 points paced the winners while C. Prendergast accounted for 12 of Port's 22 markers.

Kiasmen Play Port Five at 8:15 P. M., Prelim at 7 P. M., Varsity Named by Kias

The first of two basketball games scheduled for the municipal auditorium this week-end will be played tonight when Coach G. Warren Kias' Kingston High School basketball team opens their 1946-47 League schedule by playing host to Port Jervis. The main game goes on at 8:15 o'clock.

A preliminary is scheduled for the 7 o'clock bell with the Maroon Jayvees playing the Port Jervis Jayvees.

Starters Are Named

Coach Kias told The Freeman this morning that his starting lineup will find Mike Rienzo and Ken Lowe at forwards, Big Ed Weaver, at center, and Bob Gheer and either Harry Koch or Joe Albany in the backcourt.

"I'm not sure about Koch," Coach Kias commented this morning. "He turned up sick at yesterday's drill and whether he'll be ready to play tonight remains to be seen."

Other Maroon player—Lafayette "Champ" Holstein—may not see action tonight. He sprained his ankle in one of the drills this week and although treatment was administered immediately some soreness is still left.

Port Jervis will throw four veteran cagers at the Kiasmen tonight in Sid Keller, center; Englehart, Furman and Dale Drinko. The one newcomer is Sandro who is expected to round out a highly capable starting five for the Tri-Staters.

Although Weaver is Kingston's lone varsity star back from the 1945-46 campaign, all the others did see some varsity competition last year. Bob Gheer, backcourt ace, was one, and big things are expected of him this year. Mike Rienzo, fresh from a great season on the football field, will hold down one of the forward slots while Ken Lowe, Maroon baseball player, will work at the other forward position. Weaver will act as captain tonight.

BUSO Schedule

Besides the Kingston-Port game here tonight, Middletown will travel to Monticello, while Newburgh invades the Liberty court. Monticello will appear at the auditorium in the second game of the season next Friday night.

Doctors "Locked Out"

Labor leaders in Mexico have adopted a new tactic, a reversal of the "lock-out" system. In Saltillo, Coahuila, Dr. Raul de Montellano was forcibly removed from his job by being kept out of the concentration hospital of the National Railways, of which he was director. Dr. Ariza Sanchez, a hospital inspector, was treated likewise so that the union could install men of their own choice.

Londoners Can't Buy Bard

London (AP)—The complete works of Shakespeare, in handy 6 format and reasonably priced, are virtually unobtainable in Britain today. Single volume editions are rarely seen in stores. Never has there been such a demand for the plays, bookellers said, attributing this in part to the Shakespearean stage boom. Likewise hard to get and eagerly sought after are the writings of George Bernard Shaw.

Goldsmith Gets High Praise From Oklahoma Coach

Hank Iba Says Long Island Star Simply Amazing, Never Saw Equal

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Jackie Goldsmith, who only last week was earmarked by Coach Clair Bee for a nice, comfortable seat on the Long Island University bench, was called the greatest set-shot artist in the country by Hank Iba, veteran coach of the Oklahoma Aggies, today.

That Goldsmith boy is simply amazing," was Iba's comment following Goldsmith's brilliant exhibition which netted him 23 points and Long Island a thrilling 47-46 victory over the N.C.A.A. champions at Madison Square Garden last night.

"I have never seen the likes of him in all my years of coaching," added Iba, who was still shaking his head long after the end of the nerve-tangling contest which had 18,707 fans squirming in their seats from the first whistle to the last.

"Only one player, if my memory serves me right, has ever scored more points against a club of mine since I began coaching 20 years ago," moaned the defensive-minded coach.

'Is Mere Midget'

It was George Bernard Shaw, De Paul, who tallied 25 against us in one game. But Mikan was six-foot nine and most of his points resulted from tap-ins due to his tremendous height. Goldsmith is a mere midget, only five eight, I believe, and scored 20 of his points on long set shots."

It was not until the little sharpshooter entered the game, midway in the first half, that the Blackbirds got going. Up to then they had been held to only four points by the stout defense put up by the Aggies.

Goldsmith tried ten shots in the first half and connected with three but the Aggies walked off with a 19-15 halftime lead. With L.I.U. trailing 44-39 four minutes from the end, Goldsmith threw in five consecutive points to give the Blackbirds the lead, 44-43, for the first time in the game.

It was a personal triumph for the pint-sized sharpshooter as well.

96 Horses Given Derby Nomination For Santa Anita

Arcadia, Calif., Dec. 13 (AP)—Ninety-six three-year-old thoroughbreds have been nominated for the $100,000-added Santa Anita Derby on March 8, marking the second year the race has boasted a hundred-grand prize and the first time it has been run at the regulation nine and one-quarter derby distance.

Nominations fell short of the high 141 named when the route was a mile and one-eighth. Included was a generous international flavor, however, as was evident in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. Six British hopefuls, Sir Laurence, Sullivan, Middle Abbey, Lolimi, Lodge Night and Mulder, were named, with the first two named heralded as stake winners abroad.

Pervent and Faultless, one-two colts in the recent Walden stakes, from the capable Calumet Farm, were named in the American entries, and Joe Pilot, of Pimlico Futurity renown, Milkwagonjoe and others headed the domestic field.

Charles S. Howard led the nominations with nine, Louis B. Mayer was next with five, and Mrs. Ada L. Rice of Chicago dropped in the names of four hopefuls.

Weights are set at 118 pounds.

Newspaper Editors Propose U. S. Information Review

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors recommended today that a special group be appointed to review at intervals the State Department's distribution abroad of information, news and policy material concerning the United States.

The survey committee of eight, appointed last April, reported to a meeting of the A.S.N.E. board of directors here that it had reached this conclusion by unanimous vote.

"The present uncertainties in international relations justify an effort by the United States government to make its activities and its policies clear to the people of the world through the agency set up in the State Department."

"Your committee recognizes, however, the dangers inherent in government dissemination of news and suggests that the society appoint a special committee to review at intervals the work of the State Department agency and make its findings available to the membership."

As for the State Department's "distribution of official texts and operation of the libraries of American books and sources all over the world," the committee said it is in "complete agreement."

N. R. Howard, editor, Cleveland News, was chairman of the committee. Other members were George Cornish, managing editor, New York Herald Tribune; Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, executive editor, Houston Post; Edwin L. James, managing editor, New York Times; Ben M. McKelway, editor, Washington Star; Hamilton Owens, editor-in-chief, Baltimore Sun; Ben Reese, managing editor, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; and Gideon Seymore, executive editor, Minneapolis Star-Journal.

The State Department agency which disseminates the matter in question is the Office of International Information and Cultural Affairs, headed by Assistant Secretary William Denton.

Matter of Controversy
Its operations have been a matter of controversy in Congress and elsewhere. During the war, the major American news services furnished news to the Office of War Information and the Office of Inter-American Affairs for broadcast and distribution otherwise over the world.

Last January, the Associated Press and the United Press ended service to the State Department O.I.C., successor to the wartime agencies.

With the war over, the stand by the A.P. board of directors was that "government cannot engage in newscasting without casting the fear of propaganda upon the objectivity of the news services from which such newscasts are prepared." The U.P. took a similar position.

Benton protested publicly at the time, but the A.S.N.E. committee said it found little disposition by State Department officials to reopen that issue. "O.I.C., in fact, told the committee that its operations have survived the loss," it reported.

Benton Asked Study
The committee noted that Benton asked the A.S.N.E. for an exploratory study of the operation "with hopes of enlisting its support."

Some members of the committee indicated they were strongly influenced by the question of expediency. Mrs. Hobby said: "I am compelled to the conclusion that words are weapons in the contest of ideologies. . . . I have arrived at the conclusion that we must use the potentially powerful supplement of self-portrayal and interpretation. I abhor the necessity for it and despise the doing, but if such a program can be effective—or even partly so—it may be a partial peace insurance."

Owens said the government "has not the right but the obligation to inform the peoples of the world about its official policies."

But the men carrying out this task, he said, "should confine themselves as far as possible to the exposition of the exact policies of the government, giving such background material as may be necessary to make these policies understandable." He added:

Dangerous Field Seen
"When the government goes beyond these limits, it enters a dangerous field."

Reese said that if the argument is accepted that there is necessity that "the American side of the world picture be disseminated as widely as possible," only the national government has the means to do this in any major operation.

Cornish expressed belief that where they are permitted and find it financially possible to operate, the private press services can, I think, do a better job of distributing day-to-day news than any government agency. . . . in the vast areas where the press services do not operate, I think the State Department should by all available means present American news."

McKelway said: "If it is necessary to win friends and influence people abroad by government broadcasts of news and opinion, let us frankly recognize the government's program as an experiment in propaganda. . . . I think that program with the dissemination of untainted news."

(A footnote explained that Mr. Kelway specified reference to the "harmless" Websterian definition of propaganda and "accepts Mr. Benton's objections to the 'evil' connotations of the word as commonly used in America.")

James said the issue "comes nearer a 51-49 proposition than I feel I could write a very good brief in defense of either side."

Seymour said: "Engagement in deliberate propaganda (in the pure sense) can only weaken our world position. . . . certainly our State Department ought effectively to acquaint other peoples with our official policies and significant expositions of them—adequately interpreted."

(d) No part of the cost of the improvements authorized by this ordinance has been or shall be assessed on property specifically benefited by the said improvement.

(e) Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and to the provisions of said Law, and pursuant to Section 30.00 and Sections 57.00 to 60.00 of said Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the bonds and bonds authorized by this ordinance, are hereby delegated to the Treasurer as the chief fiscal officer of the City.

Man Tells Story Of Being Kidnaped And Hit on Head

Says He Was Taken From Bronx to Ridgefield, Told to Produce Payroll

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Philip Julius Siegel, an officer of Dye-casters, Inc., Ridgefield, N. J., told police today that he was kidnaped in front of his Bronx home last night by two men who drove him to Ridgefield and ordered him to go into the Dye-casters building and get a payroll.

He said that when he explained he could not comply the men hit him on the head with the butt of a gun. He said he feigned unconsciousness and the men left him. Police said Siegel told this story.

The men, one 24 and the other about 30, walked up to his automobile when he arrived in front of his home at 1480 Popham avenue about 6 p. m., ordered him into the back seat of the car and produced pistols to enforce their orders. Driven to Ridgefield, the men ordered him into the building stating "we know there's a big payroll in there."

When he replied that the payroll had not arrived Thursday and that he would have to ring a bell and summon a night watchman, one of the men said to the other: "We sure got lousy information on this one."

He was ordered back in the car and as he complied one of the men struck him. After driving around several hours another car pulled alongside and the two men entered it. Siegel then drove to the Ridgefield police station and reported the case.

Crashed Drug Store To Aid Fire Victims; Acquitted in Court

Atlanta, Dec. 13 (AP)—A Georgia Tech student who broke a glass door to a drug store in an effort to make surgical supplies available to victims of the Winecoff hotel fire in which 121 died was acquitted in Recorder's Court today on a police charge of disorderly conduct.

The student, Arnold Hardy, whose pictures of the fire won national attention, testified that he broke the door when police were losing too much time by telephoning the store owner in the early morning hours.

Judge A. W. Callaway dismissed the charge with the finding that Hardy had "no motive other than to help."

Harvey Hill, attorney for the (Lane) store, said that the company did not wish to prosecute. A double door to the store prevented Hardy and others from obtaining any drug supplies until the store was opened after police had summoned the management. The store was used later as an emergency aid room, but it did not carry medical supplies needed by doctors.

Hardy testified that he understood there was an urgent need for surgical supplies and "I decided the cost of the glass was small if we could get surgical supplies in a hurry." He said he kicked the door in after police had failed to break it when he offered to pay for damages. Hardy also told the court that "I went by next morning and paid for the glass."

Police Lieutenant W. L. Jay appearing as the prosecutor told the court that there was no emergency for gaining admittance to the store and that Hardy broke the glass against his warning. Hardy said he did not hear the officer.

F. B. I. Activities Highlight Bilbo War Contracts Probe

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Suspense gripped the Bilbo war contracts inquiry today as F.B.I. agents hunted the Mississippi senator's former secretary, Edward P. Terry, who asked to be spared an appearance because of asserted death threats.

Terry, long-time political associate of Theodore G. Bilbo, told the Senate War Investigating Committee in a letter made public yesterday that anonymous callers had threatened to kill him, his wife and his daughter if he spoke out in any way against his former boss.

The Senate committee is digging into complaints that Bilbo accepted $30,000 in cash, a new home and other expensive gifts in return for his efforts in behalf of various war contractors who shared in some $26,000,000 worth of construction work in Mississippi.

Terry left Bilbo's employ last January. In his letter addressed to Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) of the investigating subcommittee, the former secretary recited three instances of threats.

In view of these "and especially the fact that the lives of my wife and daughter have been threatened," the prospective witness asked that he not be required to testify.

Says Witness Necessary
Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the subcommittee, declared however that Terry is "a necessary witness" and "every agency of government should join in the search so we can proceed in an orderly way."

Mead ordered the Federal Bureau of Investigation and all facilities of the Senate pressed into the hunt. Terry last was reported en route from New York city to his home at Meridian, Miss., earlier this week. His letter to Mead was dated December 2.

Bilbo himself expressed eagerness for Terry's appearance. Through his attorney, Forrest B. Jackson of Jackson, Miss., the senator said he wanted the missing witness brought before the committee along with J. Marion Quinn, executive vice president of the Jackson State Bank.

The committee agreed to subpoena Quinn on the record of Terry's personal bank accounts.

Made Same Claims
Jackson told the committee Terry had made the same claims of death threats during the Mississippi primary campaign last summer which ended with Bilbo's Democratic renomination.

The attorney also contended that Terry had told Quinn he would use the threats as an excuse not to testify because he was "afraid he might incriminate himself."

In his letter read into the committee's record, Terry told Mead that on October 31 a person he did not know telephoned him at Meridian that "I would pay with my own life to do anything to do with the investigation of Bilbo then in progress in Mississippi. This was an inquiry by the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee into charges that Bilbo had intimidated Negro voters.

On November 26, the letter added, another anonymous call said "that should I participate or take any part in connection with the investigation of Senator Bilbo that my wife and daughter would pay with their lives."

Tells of Threat
Last April, Terry added, "I was, in the presence of witnesses, told that I would be killed if I gave out any information I might have detrimental to Senator Bilbo."

George Meader, counsel for the War Investigating Committee, related that Terry had been questioned November 26 behind closed doors and that committee attaches had last talked with him by telephone at Lakeland, Fla., last Saturday.

Pending further word from Terry, the committee listed nine witnesses for questioning today. They included:

Edwin Jones and E. J. Kratt, Charlotte, N. C., contractors who teamed up with a Mississippi construction firm to win the $11,000,000 contract for building Keesler Field at Biloxi, Miss.

F. T. Newton of Hattiesburg, Miss., and B. L. Knost of Meridian, who shared in numerous wartime jobs.

A. B. Friend of Jackson, Miss., a contractor who twice served as Bilbo's campaign manager.

William M. Gounger, president of the Deposit Guaranty Bank and Trust Company at Jackson.

Michael T. Morrissey, Vicksburg, Miss., contractor; John A. Bellan of Vicksburg and Robert Gandy of Jackson, not further identified in advance.

The greater part of the first day's hearing was devoted to questioning of a group of army engineers about award of the various contracts.

The officers all testified that Bilbo had been extremely active in

Eisenhower Home Would Become Shrine

Abilene, Kan., Dec. 13 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's family home is going to be preserved as the center of a proposed $1,000,000 memorial to him and to the United States armed forces.

C. M. Harger, Abilene editor and president of the Eisenhower Memorial Foundation, said today the memorial would include an entire block in which the old two-story frame house is located.

The General, who grew up here and once played on the high school football team, and his four brothers have agreed to deed the home and grounds to the foundation, Harger said.

learning about contracts, introducing numerous Mississippi contractors and boosting them for the jobs, and then sending telegrams and letters to see that the contractors were paid promptly.

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—John F. O'Connell, chairman of the New York State Liquor Authority, announced yesterday that effective December 16, Orange, Putnam and Rockland counties would be transferred from the Zone 2 office at Albany to the Zone 1 office here.
